This Week's Sermon: Jonah # 3 - The Allowances of God for a Life

This morning, we will continue in our study on the book of Jonah. The book of Jonah is only four Chapters long, a very short but compelling book. It's about God's interaction with a man, specifically, related to God's calling on his life, for a single mission.

In our first study we looked at a calling on a life. The calling of God on Jonah's life and how he rejected God's call, not because he was afraid but because he simply did not care about the lost. He had a callous disregard for the lost. We talked about 'the spirit of Jonah' and I challenged you to consider this question. Do you have God's heart for the lost?

Last time we explored the hand of God in our lives. His interventions in our lives. Even though Jonah had run from God, God still intervened in his life, and rescued Jonah. We learn that you really can't run from God and God's grace comes to us in ways we would never expect; that sometimes the belly of a fish is our salvation.

This morning, we will be looking at God's allowances for a life. What God does in the name of grace and mercy? We will learn that God is a God of second chances; the allowances he makes in the face of our disobedience. Redeeming is what God is into. He is the finder of directionally challenged sheep, the searcher of missing coins and the embracer of foolish prodigal sons. His favourite department is the lost and found. His love has no limits. His grace had no measure. His power has no boundaries, and he offers all this to you this morning.
